W. D. Moore Makes a Valiant Effort to Protect a Client.

A wealthy testator left an account book of sums lent his children, and it is held to be a will. Judge Hawkins says effects mean anything resulting from a man's industry. Other grind of the legal mill.

Judge Hawkins, of the Orphans' Court, yesterday dismissed the petition appealing from the probate of the will of John W. Butler. Mr. Butler died in 1874 at his home in Clarksville, Tenn., leaving a widow and five children. His personal property in Tennessee was worth about $25,000 and his widow took out letters of administration and distributed the property among the heirs. Butler had also pos considerable real estate in Allegheny county. When it was desired to divide it up an account book kept by Mr. Butler turned up. In it was the following memorandum:

"I desire at my death that all my children should share equally my effects, the amounts here charged it is desired to be deducted from their respective shares, no interest to be charged."

On separate pages were memoranda of amounts toaned to his children. The book was decided to be a will and was filed with Register Conner for probate, the property being here. Mrs. Maria D. Cosgrave, one of the heirs who was thus surcharged with money loaned, contested the will. It was admitted to probate, however, and Mrs. Cosgrave appealed to the Orphans' Court. She protested against the book as a will on the grounds that it was not signed at the end, was not offered for probate in Tennessee, and related only to the personal estate.

Judge Hawkins, in his opinion, held that it was not necessary to offer it for probate in Tennessee, as the estate to be administered is in Pennsylvania. As to its referring only to personal property, he said that the term "effects" was used, and that can be applied to anything resulting from a man's industry, though what was to be considered was the manifest intention of the restator. In present to the signature he of the testator. In regard to the signature he felt that it was merely for the purpose of identification, and the identity of the will was not called into question. In conclusion he dismissed the appeal.

REV. M'CRORY'S CHURCH SUED.

A Part of 20 Years' Rental of a Piece of Ground Wanted by Heirs. Suit was entered by Charles Wallace and others yesterday against the Fourth U. P.

Church of Pittsburg. George Wallace by deed of perpetual lease made on the 25th of July, 1814, leased to Boyle Irwin six acres of land in Pitt township, now in the city of Pittsburg, reserving an annual ground rental of $165, which was afterward reduced to $155.

Wallace died In July, 1826, leaving a widow but no children and she was to get all profits of his real estate during her life. The rental for the land in question was paid until March, 1863, when the interest of the rental was conveyed to one Richard Hays, who in May of the same year conveyed it to the Fourth Church. The church in the meantime had become owner of a part of the lot and this virtually gave them the entire possession.

The widow of George Wallace died in 1884 and all the property reverted to the brothers and sisters of her husband. There were four others besides Charles Wallace, and the latter sees for one-fifth of the annual rental with interest from 1865 to 1885, making a total sum of $655 20.

North Versailles Township Sued for Not Hedging in Railronds.

Samuel W. Ewing and James D. Linn vesterday entered a suit for $100 damages against North Versailles township. The plaintiffs are butchers at Duquesne. They state that as Linn was driving two cows from the East Liberty stock yards to Duquesne he had to Liberty stock yards to Duquesne he had to pass along the public road in the township.

At a point between Port Perry and Saltsburg the road lies between the Ealtimore and Ohio Railroad and the Pittsburg, McKeesport and Youghlogheny Railroad, which are about 30 feet apart. A train was coming along each railroad, and the cows became frightened, got on the track and were killed. The township, it is claimed, is liable for not having the road protected by a fence or something at this point.

A JURY TRIAL ORDERED.

A Contested Will Case From Jefferson Township Goes Up Higher.

The case of the contested will of William John Miller, of Jefferson township, was certified by the Register to Common Pleas No. 1 yesterday for a jury trial. Miller left the most of his property to one daughter, Fannie, and the other children contested the will.

They alleged testamentary incapacity by reason of an unsound mind, and also that the daughter used duress and constraint to make her father make such a will in her favor. The Register refused to reject the will after a num-ber of hearings, but awarded an issue to the Common Pleas Court for a jury trial.

The announcement cabled to London some two weeks ago of the discovery of the long-forgotten grave of Lord Howe, the hero of the battle of Ticonderoga in 1753, under a street of the village of that name in New York State, has stimulated the patriotism of a few public-spirited Englishmen who propose to appropriately mark the resting place of the young hero. Funds are being quietly collected for the purpose, and a monument will be erected at a convenient spot near Ticonderoga, to which the remains can be conveniently removed.

Ten Years of Intense Suffering

Mr. Frank Bordar, a well-known gentleman, suffered for ten years from kidney disease. After receiving two months' treatment from the physicians of the Polypathic Medical Institute, he gave the following interesting history, with permission to publish it. He said: "I had much pain across my back and lower part of my body. My hands and feet would often get cold, and sharp cramps would often seize me. My heart would at times paipitate as if it would jump out of my body. Hot flashes would often come over me. I was always tired on getting up in the morning. The disease finally extended to my lungs, causing much pain and tightness in my chest. In vain I tried to find some doctor who could cure me, but could only get a little relief, and so I suffered on in this way for ten years. I finally read in the papers of wonderful cures being made by the physicians of the Polypathic Institute, and as I read that they made a specialty of my disease, I began treatment, and I am glad to state that I have been cured."

BE TRUE TO YOURSELF!

One should think that this would be the first principle of nature, out, strange as it may seem, there are people who from ignorance or eglect always try their level best to injure their own interests.

Let's look at the people who buy clothing. The majority come to us, to be sure. But what of the minority? Those who, without stopping to think where they can get the best value for their money, rush helter-skelter into the next best clothing house, and buy costly garments as if they were buying postage stamps. Poor, misguided people! When will they find that in clothing stores, unlike in postoffices, goods. prices and principles are vastly at varia nce?

It is to this minority-the people who have never patronized nathat we direct our words to to-day. If they are but open to conviction, we shall have no trouble in bringing them under our banner.

Here we are with the largest stock, the best qualities, the newest styles, the lowest prices, the most centrally located building, the lightest and largest salesroom, the most experienced and efficient corps of salesmen-ready, ready, ready, to supply you with anything in our line for less money than you could obtain it elsewhere, or, if we fail to do this, to refund your money without a murmur. You certainly cannot ask more. And, if you would stop to pick up a penny, you surely won't pass us who will save you dollars. But for a few pointy questions:
